EXHIBIT B

DOCUMENTS TO PRODUCE

I. DEFINITIONS

In the following, unless the context indicates otherwise, the following words and phrases are defined and used herein as follows:

A . “Document” or “documents” shall have their customary broad meanings and shall include, without limitation, all originals, copies and drafts of all written, typewritten, recorded, transcribed, printed, taped photographic or graphic matter, however produced or reproduced, whether sent or received, or neither, including but not limited to, all books, pamphlets, articles, newspapers, press releases, magazines, booklets, circulars, handbooks, manuals, periodicals, letters, memoranda, files, envelopes, notices, instructions, reports, financial reports, records, studies, transcripts, diaries (formal or informal), audited and unaudited financial statements, working papers, questionnaires, notes, notations, charts, lists, comparisons, telegrams, cables, telex messages, communications (including intra-corporate communications, and reports, notes, notations, and memoranda of, or relating to, telephone conversations and conferences), minutes, transcriptions, correspondence, agreements, graphs, tabulations, analyses, evaluations, tests, projection opinions or reports of consultants, statements, summaries, desk calendars, appointment books, telephone logs, telephone bills, surveys, indices, tapes, computer inputs or outputs, computer memory, electronic mail, microfilm, magnetic tapes, photographs, installation guides, and instructional material within your possession, custody or control. Different versions of the same documents, including but not limited to, drafts or documents with handwritten notations or marks not found in the original or on other copies are different documents.

B. A document which "relates to" or is "incident to" subject matter specified below means any document or communication that concerns, constitutes, contains, embodies, comprises, evidences, responds to, refers to, reflects, identifies, states, deals with, comments upon, responds to, alludes to, describes, names, mentions, analyzes, or is otherwise pertinent to that subject matter, including, but not limited to, documents concerning the preparation of such document and documents from which such document is derived.

C. As used herein, the term "person" shall mean the plural as well as the singular including, but not limited to, any individual, natural person, corporation, firm, general partnership, limited partnership, joint venture, association, joint stock company, trust, unincorporated organization, or any other form of business entity or other legal or governmental agency, department, unit or other subdivision thereof.

D. As used herein, the term "communication" shall mean and include any transmission

or exchange of information (in the form of facts, ideas, inquiries, or otherwise) between two or more persons, whether orally or in writing, and shall include without limitation any conversation or discussion whether face-to-face or by means of letter, note, memorandum, telephone, video conferencing, telegraph, telex, telecopier, cable, modem, voice mail, or some other electronic or other medium or by any writing or document.

E. As used herein, the term "agreement" shall be used in its broadest sense and shall include any understanding, contract, pact, stipulation, arrangement, side agreement, agreement in principle, either directly or through related or unrelated parties, or other similar relationship, whether written or oral, formal or informal, express or implied and regardless of legal validity or enforceability among two or more persons.

F. As used herein, the term "identify," when used in connection with a natural person, means to state his/her full name and present or last known address and phone number; his/her present or last known position and business affiliation, address and telephone number; and if ever an employee of yours, or under contract or similar type of arrangement or agreement, the precise job or position or title held at any time as of or since the date in question and the dates of service in each such job or position held; if a former employee of yours, or formerly under a contract or similar type of arrangement or agreement, the date of and reason for termination of the employment and job title at the time of the event, transaction, or occurrence to which the request for information relates.

G. As used herein, the term "identify," when used in reference to a meeting, communication, or agreement, shall mean to state its date and place; to identify the natural persons or entities that were parties to or have knowledge of the meeting, communication, or agreement; to describe the substance of any discussion involved in such meeting, communication, or agreement; and the method of communication employed (e.g., telephone, correspondence); and to identify every document that depicts, embodies, refers, or relates in any manner to, or reflects in any way such meeting, communication, or agreement.

H. As used herein, the term "identify" or give the "identity" of, when used in connection with a "person" (as defined above) other than a natural person means to state its name, its place and date of incorporation, its principal place of business, and the identity of the person or persons having knowledge of the matters with respect to which the company is named.

I. As used herein, the term "identify" when used in reference to a document means to state the title, heading or caption, if any, of such document; identifying numbers, letters or a combination thereof, if any, and the significance or meaning of such numbers, letters, or combination thereof, if necessary to an understanding of the document for evaluation of any claim or protection from discovery; the date appearing on such document; each date on which it was recorded, each County, record, volume and page where it is recorded, and if no date appears thereon, the answer shall so state, and shall give the date or approximate date on which the document was prepared; the number of pages and the general nature or description of such document (i.e., whether it is a letter, memorandum, minutes of a meeting, etc.) with sufficient particularity so that such document can be precisely identified; the name and capacity of the person who signed such document or in whose name such document was issued, and if it was not signed, the answer shall so state and shall give the name of the person or persons who prepared it; the name and capacity of the person to whom the document was addressed, and the name and capacity of each other person to whom such document, or copy thereof was sent, distributed, or directed; the physical location of the document and every copy thereof and the name of its custodian and the custodian of every copy thereof; and whether it will be voluntarily made available to Defendant for inspection and copying, and if not, the reasons why not. In lieu of the foregoing, you may attach a legible, true and correct copy of such document.

J. As used herein, the term "identify," when used in reference to any event or occasion, means to describe when the event occurred and where it occurred.

K. As used herein, "knowledge" in reference to a person shall mean the knowledge of that person and each of its agents, employees, and/or any other person whose duties and responsibilities include the subject to which the knowledge relates. Knowledge includes actual as well as constructive knowledge.

M. As used herein, the term "transaction" is defined as the act of performing, carrying out, managing, or conducting business.

N. The following rules of construction apply to all discovery requests:

(1) The terms "all" and "each" shall be construed as all and each.

(2) The connectives "and" or "or" shall be construed either disjunctively or conjunctively as necessary to bring within the scope of the discovery request all responses that might otherwise be construed to be outside of its scope.

(3) The use of singular form of any word includes the plural and vice versa.
